NOTE--After the death of Dessalines, Henri Christophe established himself in the north, while Alexandre Pétion took possession of the southern part of the island. Coins bearing the name of Christophe are not known after those of 1808, although there were quite a number of pattern pieces, of various denominations, issued until and including 1820, when Christophe committed suicide. For a time the forces of Christophe and Pétion fought until hostilities were suspended in 1810, when Christophe declared himself King. The first coins bearing the title of "Republic of Hayti" were dated 1813, or "AN 10," and these seem to have answered ~~for~~ general purposes for the island. In 1817 coins of various denominations bearing the bust and title of Pétion were issued, and these were ~~followed~~ by coins bearing the bust and title of Gen. Jean Pierre Boyer, who succeeded Pétion in 1818, and in 1822 became master of the entire island. Boyer held the Presidency of the Republic of Hayti until 1843, when he was driven from the island by a revolution.

and Pétion retained control of the southern section.

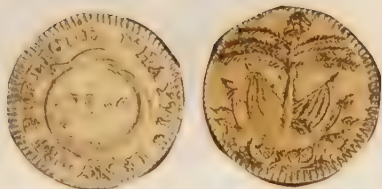

2016-1813. 25 Centimes. Obverse, in field, "25 * C." Around border, "REPUBLIQUE D' HAYTI * AN 10 * " ~~1813~~. Reverse, coat of arms of the Republic. Silver.

NOTE--The independence of Hayti dates from 1803, or "AN 1," this being the year of the evacuation of the French.

HAYTI I.

In 1844 the people at the eastern end of the ~~the~~ formed the Dominican Republic, and several Presidents ruled over the western end, of Hayti. The first of these is Louis Pierrot, who governed ~~the~~ from April 16, 1845, to March 1, 1846. It is difficult to attribute with certainty to which government the coins of 1846 may belong, but it is thought that at least the three following may be assigned to Pierrot:

Louis Pierrot, April 16, 1845, March 1, 1846.

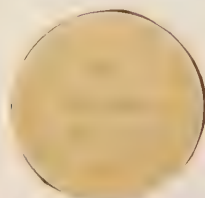

2176-1846. 6 1/4 C. Second die.

2175-1846. 6 1/4 Centimes. Obverse, in field, "SIX CENTIMES UN QUART 1846," in four lines, inclosed by a wreath. Around the border, "REPUBLIQUE D'HAITI." Reverse, a fasces in field, to the left "6," to the right, "C 1/4." A round border "LIBERTE EGALITE." Below fasces, "AN 45." Copper. 31mm. Fonrobert 7585. First die.

2177-1846. 2 Centimes. Similar to 1842, but of much better workmanship. Copper.

2178-1846. 1 Centime. Similar workmanship to foregoing, Copper.

JEAN BAPTISTE RICHE.
March 1, 1846--Feb. 27, 1847.

2179-1846. 6 Centimes. Obverse, "SIX CENTIMES 1846," inclosed by wreath. Around border, "REPUBLIQUE D'HAITI." Reverse, Similar to the 6 1/4 Centimes of 1846, but "6" to left and "C" to right of the fasces. Copper. First die.

 1808--Three Reales. JE. CARLOS IV : 1808 ; Rev. 1808 ST/REYES
 VS (original) (Gothic) n. 1808 1808 1808 1808

This is the only variety known of the coin of the denomination of three reales. Owing to the confusion resulting from the close similarity of this denomination with that of the four reales the larger denomination was discontinued very soon after its first appearance, and probably was only struck during the first year's operation of the mint.

UNITED STATES

Charles and Johanna--1536--1555.

1--Two series. Ob. KAROLVS ET ION . Rev. HISPANIA ET INDIARVM : M :
To the left of the coat of arms a small Gothic "m," and to the right a similar letter. Below the columns a Capital
"R," for the assayer.

This undoubtedly is the first type of the coins struck at the Mexican mint. When the law for the first coinage of Mexico was passed on May 11, 1535, provision was made for the striking of the silver cuartillo, or quarter real; half real, 1 real, 2 reales, and 3 reales. Although not provided for by this law, a four reales also was struck. It is said that the Indians, being little accustomed to coins, passed the four reales for three, and vice versa, which confusion resulted in ~~a~~ ^{the passage of a} law on Nov. 18, 1537, ~~being passed~~ which revoked the striking of the three reales, and gave authority for the coinage of four reales, ^{it also} and provided that eight reales might be coined if found expedient. As only one variety of the three reales is known, it is probable that the design represents the first issue at the mint. To bear out this theory we find illustrated as No. 2, Page 66, in Medina's fine work entitled "Las Monedas ~~Coloniales~~ Coloniales Hispano-Americanas," published in 1919, a four reales of precisely the same style as the three reales, even to the unusual repetition of the mint letter on the reverse--i. e., a Gothic ~~##~~ "m" after "INDIARVM." On Plate 26 ^{no. 6912} of the "Catalogo ~~de la~~ Coleccion de Monedas y Medallas de Manuel Vidal Quadras y Ramon de Barcelona," 1892, ~~no. 6912~~, is shown the two reales of the same design. On Plate 27, No. 6913, of the latter work is illustrated the one real. Up to this time there does not seem to be on record a half real or cuartillo of this design. As a matter of fact, ^{of any design} a specimen of the cuartillo of the reign of Charles and Johanna of the Mexican mint is not known. The piece described above as No. ²⁴²⁴ D, the only specimen known, is a variation of the two reales of Quadras y Ramon, as the mint letter is a Latin "M," which conforms closely to the law of 1535, which provided that there should be placed "donde hobiere la devisa da las columnas una M latina, para que se conozca que se hizo en Mexico." The letter "R" below the pillars stands for the assayer of the Mexican mint, Alonso del Rincon. Although an eight reales was provided for in the law that ordered the striking of four reales and rescinded the striking of three reales, yet up to the present time no specimen of this eight reales is known to numismatists.

Francisco del Rincon, who succeeded Alonso del Rincon, or at least performed the latter's duties in 1542, made the statement in 1542 during the investigation of the mint by the Visitador that the eight reales had been struck, but only for a short time, owing to the cost and difficulty of coinage. (The full text of the investigation is given in Medina's work above mentioned.) Rincon also stated that copper coins of two and four maravedis were struck at the mint, and that the coinage had been discontinued, as the copper was poor and brittle and could not withstand the hammer. The Indians of Mechoican refined the copper where it was mined and then sent it to the mint to be coined.

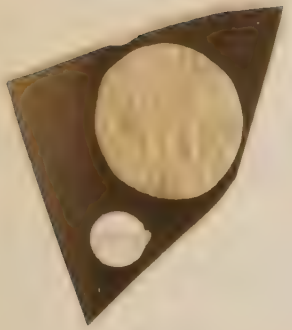

Two Reales. Ob. CAROLVS ET IOHANA. Rev. HISPANIARVM ET INDIAR. At either side of the coat of arms capital Latin "M's." Below the pillars "C."

This style of design is known in three denominations. The four reales is illustrated on Page 65 of Medina. The one real of similar design is shown on Plate 26 of Quadras y Ramon, No. 6884. It seems quite probable that this design is one of the earliest, and follows closely that with the Gothic "m" mint letter. In fact, all the designs of the coinage of Charles and Johanna showing the word "PLVS" on an ornamented label are likely to have been among the first coins struck.

3--Two Reales. Ob. KAROLVS ET IOHANA R. Rev. HISPANIARVM ET INDIARVM. To the left of the shield "M," to the right "P."

The style of "M" and "P" is known in four denominations. Medina illustrates the four reales on Page 66, and Quadras y Ramon shows the same coin on Plate 26, No. 6909. The one real is shown by Quadras y Ramon on Plate 26, No. 6881. The illustration of the obverse is quite clear, but that of the reverse is indistinct, although the catalogue states that the word "ILVS" is on a ribbon. The one-half real is listed in the Salbach catalogue, No. 3229. All the coins of this style have the letters divided by shield-shaped ornaments

Charles and Johanna--1536-1555.

All the varieties of the four maravedis, of which there are quite a number, bear the letter "M." There is one variety of this denomination which shows the figure "4" on both obverse and reverse.

Two Maravedis. Ob. CHAROLVS ?? In the field "PLVS ULTR." below is the letter "M." Rev. "HISPAN ? ? ? V.M." In the field is a castle with three towers. Copper.

So far as known, this is the only specimen of the two maravedis that has come to the attention of numismatists. In the ~~royal~~ order of June 28, 1542, by which Viceroy Mendoza provided for the coinage of two and four maravedis, it was required that the design of the two maravedis should have on one side a pillar, crowned, with the words "PLUS ULTRA," the reverse to show a castle and crown with the mint mark of Mexico, while it was specified that the four maravedis should have a castle, a crowned "K," with an "L" below surmounted by an "o." The other side was to have a castle and crowned "I.", with a lion.

It is said that a one maravedis was struck, but no specimen is known. Medina, on Page 41, gives an interesting account of the copper piece. He states that at the end of 1545, owing to the poor quality of the copper, and the difficulty of properly striking it, the die of the four maravedis was ordered to be destroyed by the Visitador. It is probable that copper coins were not struck after that year at the Mexican mint after that year. The Indians were said to have no liking for this copper currency and threw it into the lake.

Vidal y Quadras, No. 6910, plate 26, shows a two reales with "M--R," and there is a four reales showing a Gothic "M" to the left and an "R" to the right of the shield. PHILIP V.
1700--1724, (Jan. 10.)

Philip V. of Spain was the second son of Louis, Dauphin of France, and of Maria Ana of Bavaria, and was born at Versailles on Dec. 19, 1683. He bore the title of Duke of Anjou when, by will of Charles II. of Spain he was called to that throne. He arrived at Madrid on Feb. 8, 1701, but deferred his official entrance until April 14. On Nov. 13, 1701, he married Dona Maria Louisa Gabrielle of Savoy. Until 1720 his three favorites--Cardinal Porto Carrero, the Princess of los Ursines, and Alarcon--dominated State affairs. The Emperor of Germany did not recognize Philip, and formed with England and Holland what was known as the great alliance, in which Savoy later entered, as did also Portugal and the King of Prussia. The object was to dethrone Philip, who was the nephew of Louis XIV., and substitute the Archduke Carlos, the second son of Emperor Leopold. The war of succession lasted twelve years. During the early part of the contest Archduke Carlos was proclaimed King of Spain, with the title of Charles III., in Denia, Valencia, Barcelona, Zaragoza, and Madrid, and became master of almost entire Spain, but the allies were compelled to sign the peace of Utrecht in 1743, brought about by the victories of Berwick and Vitoria.

2599 89--One-half Real. Monogram of Philip V. Crude as is this little coin, yet it is a good example of some of the coins of the period. It probably shows but little deterioration in weight or design from the time it was struck. The reverse shows the cross of Jerusalem and "PHIL." It no doubt is the first coin of the denomination to be struck in Mexico during this reign, although it is far inferior in workmanship to the 8 reales of 1702 shown above.

of his son, Luis I. VQR. 9824. Jenkins 6648. (see.)

Luis I. was born on Aug. 25, 1707, his mother being Maria Luisa of Savoy. He succeeded his father, Philip V., to the throne of Spain on Jan. 10, 1724, and lived but a few months afterward, dying on Aug. 24, 1724.

1732, 4 real pieces, "D." followed by a coat of arms.

In 1732 there was begun a new style of coinage--the pillars design. Campos y Gonzalez is said to have mentioned all the denominations of the columns or pillars type down to the real, illustrating the 8 reales of 1734. Her rera says that though the Mexican mint began the coinage of the new type in 1732, yet in the same and two succeeding years the previous type also was coined, perhaps because the new dies were not sufficient in number to meet the demands for the new style of coinage.

In 1733 we find no less than three styles of design. First, the 8 reales, "recortado," of the type of 1710. Second is the reales of the new design (the columns type,) showing the mint mark as * M . X * 1733 * M . X * this evidently being the design first struck in 1732. Third, there was a 4 reales piece similar in design to the foregoing, but with the mint indicated * M * 1733 M * In 1734 the 4 reales, while similar to the last mentioned, varies still again in the mint mark, by omitting the small "o" above the second "M." thus * M * 1734 * M * These two latter forms continued for a number of years, probably until 1772, when the "two worlds" type was replaced by the portrait type. There were also two distinct forms of reverse design. On the first the shield is shown surrounded by the inscription "PHILIP V. D. G. HISPAN. ET IND. REX." The second form shows the crown surmounting the shield placed at the extreme top of the field and dividing the inscription, which is abbreviated "PHS. V. D. G. HISP. ET IND. R." It is said that the new style of coinage was first issued on March 29, 1732, and that five pieces of gold and five of silver were struck from the dies of each denomination. All of these denominations, according to Medina, are in the collection of Don Juan
